

Join a Pregnancy Study on Mayzent®

Volunteer for research to improve the health of moms and babies!

MotherToBaby is currently enrolling pregnant women in a study examining the use of siponimod (also known as MAYZENT®) to treat multiple sclerosis in pregnancy. The study is conducted through phone interviews—no changes to your normal routine or travel required. If you've taken Mayzent® and are pregnant, you may qualify for this important study.

"There is a huge need to generate more info on the medications that pregnant women need to take."

— Christina Chambers, PhD, MPH, MotherToBaby Pregnancy Studies
